The Theodore Award for Visionary Leadership

2009 Honoree

George Lancaster

In 1978 Theodore "Ted" Swindley founded Stages Repertory Theatre, giving voice to new ideas that demanded to be heard and urging Houston audiences to see the newest, most daring works written for the Stage. Thirty years later, Ted's dream grows through the extraordinary leadership that continues to drive Stages forward. First as an Impresario and board member, and then as board president, George Lancaster has worked tirelessly to match Stages' artistic vision with resources and strategies for the theatre's constant progress. His passion, energy and imagination have engaged new supporters, inspired artists, staff and fellow board members, and played a vital role in winning Stages unprecedented local and national acclaim. Please join us as we celebrate Ted's legacy and honor George's contributions with the inaugural Theodore Award for Visionary Leadership.

“ You need three things
in the theatre—the play,
the actors and the audience, and each must give something ”

- Kenneth Haigh

advancing theatre, enlivening culture

In a time when the uncertainty of our world dominates conversation, art becomes more important than ever. Stages has proven time and again that the communal gathering at the core of live theatre generates immeasurable promise and possibility: Anything can happen in the theatre, and everything is possible.

Stages is a not-for-profit professional theatre that produces new work, presents established work in new ways, and nurtures talent for the performing arts field. One of only two theatres in Houston that offer year-round employment for actors, designers and theatre technicians through professional unions, Stages brings a level of artistic excellence to Houston that raises the national profile of the whole community, improves the quality of life in the region, and offers residents and visitors thrilling live performances.

In addition to its MainStage season of contemporary plays, Stages introduces young audiences to the magic of live theatre through the EarlyStages series and offers a range of other education and community outreach programs that provide unparalleled opportunities for under-served youth, encourage conversation about important issues, provide insight into other cultures and viewpoints, and help develop each new generation of citizens, artists and audiences.
